'Coast Encounters' to encourage math, science literacy

BY DENA BISNETTE
Mississippi First Lady Julie Mabus has endorsed a program that will help expose students in 138 Gulf Coast and Pearl River County schools to the potential careers at John C. Stennis Space Center in the next century.

Mabus, space center officials, an astronaut and industry leaders gathered at the Broadwater Beach Hotel Friday for a press conference introducing "Coast Encounters: A Space-age Adventure in Science Literacy for the Mississippi Gulf Coast."

The program is designed to encourage today's students to excel in the higher math and science fields needed to fill the personnel needs at the space center around the year 2000.

Traveling exhibits will be placed in several locations including Edgewater Mall and Pearl River Community College to help promote awareness, with workshops and exhibits at schools from April 16 to May 5. "Coast Encounters" is part of the NASA Community Involvement Program.

One of the highlights of the awareness campaign will include one of Mississippi's largest aircraft flyovers, which begins at 2 p.m. on a route from Bay St. Louis to Pascagoula; a space theme sand sculpture contest in front of Edgewater Mall; and an exhibit van at the mall itself.

"The space center and the Coast are both very, very progressive. This is just the latest in bringing these two very progressive entities together," Mabus stated Friday.

Mabus, who has traveled throughout Mississippi promoting literacy, added, "Just as important, if not more, is science and math literacy...If the community doesn't understand that, we won't have a workforce to offer the center."

Space center Director Roy Estess agreed, stating, "Today's fifth graders are the people John C. Stennis Space Center will be trying to recruit in the year 2000."

Among the new developments he foresees by that time are more routine space travel, a functioning space station, a Moon outpost and a commitment to the exploration of Mars.

He explained that the need for "lower skilled jobs" is rapidly declining, while the need for higher skills, primarily technical, is already increasing.

"We at NASA are concerned about not being able to fulfill our commitments and staff our jobs," Estess said.

He stated that the space center has an on-site Job Service office at its north gate and that 2,000 applications a year are submitted, but that only a few of the people are qualified.

"We have jobs open for engibor Director Harold "Buz" Olsen, who are serving on the Community Involvement Steering Committee.

Olsen, who chairs the committee, said the entire budget for the program totals about $20,000 and at least half of that has already been obtained through the Gulf Coast Economic Council's special project funds. NASA's contribution consists of in-kind services such as supplying the resource people who will visit the schools.

Hancock schools named satellite teaching site

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County School District is being included in a grant project which will allow students to use satellite television to take courses generated through Oklahoma State University and other members of an educational consortium.

Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph said the program is being arranged through University of Mississippi's Office of Distant Learning.

Randolph reported the district received formal approval for the program about six weeks ago.

"The program is similar to the one the Bay St. Louis-Waveland district will have," he said, referring to an announcement last week that the Bay-Waveland schools had been approved for a distant learner program administered through a consortium which includes Mississippi State University.

University of Mississippi is participating in the Midlands Consortium STAR School Program. STAR stands for satellite transmitted academic resources.

Installation of the receiving equipment will be next month, with the project expected to become functional about April 1, Randolph said. Equipment provided to the school through the 100 percent grant will be a remote antenna, satellite receiver system, digital television monitor, videocassette recorder, printer, cordless telephone and some TV-VCR security cabinets.

Hancock North Central has been selected as the site for the system so it can serve elementary, junior high and high school students. In addition, the system will provide some staff development and community education programs.

Randolph explained the system is interactive, meaning there will be two-way communication between the teachers where the program originates and the students viewing it at Hancock North Central.

Courses for high school and college credit will begin when the 1989-90 school year starts and will include German, Russian, physics and calculus. The following year, new offerings are expected to include advanced chemistry and higher math, the superintendent added.

Some programs will be included for at-risk students. Staff development topics include such subjects as utilizing technology and developing parents as teachers. In addition, eight teleconferences will focus on contemporary issues in teaching today, six will feature the teaching of reading and five will discuss career counseling and guidance.

Randolph said he does not know the exact amount of the grant, which is part of a $20 million U.S. Department of Education project funding a number of distant learner programs.

The school district's expenses will be $4,000 in fees for each course 10 students take for credit, with additional students able to obtain credit for $250 each. The school district will pay the fees out of average daily attendance funds, Randolph commented.

"It's exciting because we're going to be able to offer a lot of classes...We also expect to be able to use this for literacy and for community learning projects," the superintendent said, adding that Hancock School District-initiated community learning would be new because the community learning courses offered at school facilities now are actually sponsored by Pearl River Community College.

Nami gets 10 years for sale of drugs

BY D.C. HARVILL

Stating that the people of Mississippi are not going to tolerate the destructive influence of drugs, Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos sentenced Bay St. Louis resident George M. Nami to a 10-year prison term for the sale of cocaine.

Earlier this year, Nami had plead guilty to the charges against him.

At a sentencing hearing Thursday, Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy presented the court with a list of Nami's prior arrests, including a DUI and a weapons violation, according to Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler.

Murphy, the only witness for the state recommended that the court send Nami to prison instead of putting him on probation.

Nami's father, Phil Nami, took the stand giving background information on his son and asking for leniency.

Also, several letters were presented from people asking that the court be lenient with Nami.

The people of Mississippi are begging to get drugs off the streets and put an end to the disruption they cause to our society, Vlahos told Nami before sentencing him to 10 years, two of which were suspended, Metzler said.

DRUG ARREST

A Hancock County man has been arrested and charged on two drug violations.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong said Harlis E. "Cricket" Johnston, 25, was arrested at about 6 p.m. Thursday at his residence on Cesar-Necaise Road.

Strong said Johnston was charged with one count of conspiracy to sell a controlled substance and one count of attempting to sell a controlled substance. The drug involved in both counts was marijuana.

Johnston has been released from the Hancock County Jail on $10,000 bond.

"The investigation is continuing and we believe that there will be more violators arrested as a result," Strong stated. He is in charge of the investigation.

Cannon pleads guilty to fraud

District Attorney Glen Cannon, in the fifth day of his trial on bankruptcy fraud and other charges, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Walter Gex III in U.S. District Court in Biloxi Friday.

Cannon, 41, did not present a defense, but instead entered a guilty plea in a plea bargaining arrangement.

After a controversial first year in office, Cannon had been arrested Dec. 9 and charged with bankruptcy fraud in the alleged concealment of about $12,000 from authorities investigating Gulfport businessman Jerry Lampley's estate. Lampley later pled guilty to gas and oil fraud.

Federal prosecutors agreed to drop a bankruptcy fraud charge accusing Cannon of lying during a Dec. 6 hearing on Lampley's estate and an obstruction of justice charge involving Cannon's alleged threat to falsely indict Gulfport attorney David Owen, an informant in Lampley's case.

Sentencing has been set for May 12 in Biloxi. As part of the plea bargain, the district attorney must resign within 15 days.

The governor will appoint a replacement to serve until a special election in November.

DeWitt Allred, the assistant district attorney who is assigned to Hancock County, stated, "I would rather talk to Glen before I make any comment about his plea or sentencing."

"As far as our office is concerned, the Grand Jury is still scheduled to come back on Feb. 22 and there should be no effect on court coming up in March."

"In my opinion, our office is functioning very smoothly at this time."

USDA offers purchase plan to rural community borrowers

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration is offering rural communities with water, sewer and other essential facility loans from FmHA an opportunity to purchase them at a discount, acting FmHA Administrator Neal Sox Johnson said today.

Letters explaining the purchase offer should reach borrowers throughout the country early this week, he said.

FmHA is required to raise $584 million from asset sales this fiscal year, the third sale mandated by the 1986 Reconciliation Act. Last year, more than $900 million was collected when borrowers bought 3,300 loans.

"We don't know what to expect in terms of purchases this year," Johnson said. "But if we don't raise enough in that way, we will have to consider other approaches, including a sale of loan assets, to enable us to meet the target."

No deposits will be required for loans purchased by March 9. For loans purchased between March 10 and May 9, a five percent good faith deposit is required by March 9, and the sale must be completed by May 9.

The discount will depend on factors such as the loan's interest rate, type of financing, and maturity. Letters to borrowers include a 'pricing grid' to help borrowers determine the discount.

Favre joins the race for Bay mayor's post

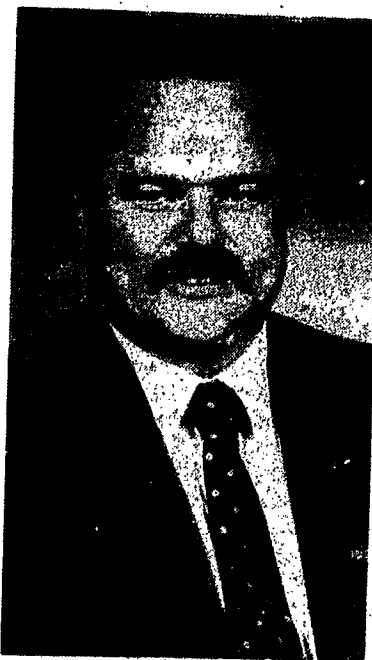

"Every voice will be heard," said Edward A. Favre as he announced his candidacy on Friday for mayor of the City of Bay St. Louis.

A lifelong resident of "the Bay," Favre, 34, currently is serving as city clerk and director of administration, a position he has held for more than eight years.

His accomplishments in that position include a tax department consolidation with the county in cooperation with the county tax collector, negotiation of natural gas purchase contracts which resulted in savings to utilities customers and the repurchase of Farmers Home Administration bonds which saved the city approximately $1 million.

A certified public accountant, he is a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School and holds a degree in business administration from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He has recently been selected for a third term as president of Bay St. Louis Little League, is a member and past treasurer of the Knights of Columbus, a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Mississippi Society of Certified Public Accountants.

EDWARD A. FAVRE

The son of Ethel Ladner Favre and the late Nelius A. Favre Sr., he and his wife, the former Terri Monti, have two sons Jonathan, 10, and Jamie, 8.

"I will work in conjunction with other local agencies to provide a more efficient government with no future tax increases. We must learn to live within our resources, yet still provide the services so necessary for the health, education and welfare of all our citizens.

"We must update our present zoning ordinance not only to preserve the historical value of our community but also to encourage a controlled growth of the revenue-producing developments which will ease the financial burden on our citizens in both the private and business sectors.

"I will continue to closely monitor the city's utility system in search of alternatives through which rate reductions can be realized.

"I wholeheartedly endorse an extensive drug abuse prevention program and will support the formulation of a cooperative county-wide drug task force. Our youth are our most precious commodity and we must pull together as a team to provide them a future free of drugs.

"We must present a solid front in order to meet the many and varied challenges of the 1990's. Our future depends on it," Favre said.

"Mine will be a people to people administration, down-to-earth, with no frills, seeking input and providing representative action. As your mayor, every voice will be heard!"

Johnson seeks Bay council re-election

Bay St. Louis native and lifelong resident Charles E. Johnson has announced his intention to seek a second term as city councilman representing Ward Three.

Johnson, 37, a resident of 351 Keller Street, is employed with Sun Land Corporation, a subcontractor to G.E. Plastics (Borg-Warner). He formerly had been employed with the Retired Senior Volunteers Program for 14 years.

A 1970 graduate of Bay Senior High School, Johnson is a member of the Conference of Southern Black Democrats, representing the State of Mississippi, and was appointed by Secretary of State Dick Melpus to serve on the Blue Ribbon Commission on Tidelands.

The candidate is a member of First Missionary Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis, is a founder and treasurer of the Krewe of Real People for whom he has served as grand marshal and was chosen King of this year's celebration.

He also is treasurer of the Veteran's Civic Organization, a member of Bay-Waveland Headstart Citizen's Advisory Council and serves on the Mississippi Employment Service's Summer Youth Board.

"I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the citizens of Ward Three for their past support and ask that they continue to support me by keeping a deeply concerned and experienced public servant in a position to serve them.

"Four years ago, I promised I would serve you with honesty, integrity, concern, good judgment and a willingness to speak out for the people of Ward Three. I feel I have kept that promise," Johnson said.

TIMBERLINE

By Mark Jamie
County Forester

Management plan guides life of forest

If you own forestland, you definitely need one. If you've had it for more than five years, you need a new one. No forest landowner should ever be caught without one! Now, what's all this gibberish about? A forest management plan -- do you have one?

A forest management plan is a guide to the proper management of your forest. This "recipe" for a fully productive forest includes a description of the timber, volume and growth rates of pine and hardwood stands found on your timbered property.

Information on soil characteristics and protection from fire, insects and disease is also given in the plan, along with a detailed map showing individual stands of timber and other pertinent facts about the property.

A key feature of a forest management plan is the schedule of recommended forest management practices needed to improve the land's productivity. This schedule will indicate what practices need to be carried out and when each practice should be applied.

In addition, an estimate of costs to complete recommended forestry practices is given, providing a general idea of future expenses involved in managing your forestland.

A forest management plan allows you to keep up with the forest management practices applied to your forested property, and guides you on when to carry out future management practices.

Very simply, it's a "game plan" that guides you through the life of your forest. The plan should be revised or up-dated by a professional forester every five years.

The Mississippi Forestry Commission will prepare a forest management plan upon request to the local county forester. The plan is free of charge. However, there is a limit on the amount of time that can be spent providing this service.

So, if you own forested land, but don't have a forest management plan, give me a call at 467-4726. Better yet, drop by my office, and let's talk about how a forest management plan can help you in managing your timber.

Childrens safety a must for officials

Students crossing US-90 at Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis are once again in the news due to an accident involving a student.

This is not the first incident involving a student and a vehicle at the dangerous highway crossing.

We can recall several years ago, when a Bay St. Louis patrolman was struck by an auto while protecting students making the crossing.

This is a dangerous intersection, even with crossing guards. Among the reasons of danger are the traffic count, service lanes and the hazardous conditions of Dunbar Avenue for pedestrians.

A portion of the sidewalk South of US-90 is non-existent or poorly defined and hard to find for an adult, much less a young student.

This is not hard to prove; all it will take is for an adult to take a short approach walk and cross the busy intersection himself.

Let us make this clear—the Bay patrolmen who work as crossing guards do a fantastic job, and should be commended for the dangerous work they do at the crossing. Yet, it is impossible for a crossing guard to be in place on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

The number of youngsters crossing the highway for the elementary school is not many and efforts should be taken by officials to assure their safety.

Several years ago a walkway above the highway was planned and progressed as far as having the footings in place before the project was stopped.

There are many pros and cons for such a structure. It is realized that state law requires bus transportation be provided for students residing outside a one-mile radius of a school.

The students who have to make the dangerous crossing each day live too close to be covered by that state law.

Yet, the hazard of the US-90 crossing could be taken into consideration by city and school officials and bus transportation should be provided for the small number of students affected. It is our understanding the state law would not prevent this measure.

Sure, it would add to school transportation costs, but what about the extra cost for a police officer having to report to the crossing twice a day in a $15,000-valued vehicle?

Children's safety has to have a priority.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A very happy John Rutherford called on Thursday to report on a very successful blood drawing held Wednesday.

Rutherford said this was the most successful drawing to be conducted in Hancock County in over 10 years.

Some 142 volunteers offered blood with 127 units being collected during the six-hour period at the Bay St. Louis American Legion Home.

There were also 23 volunteers such as doctors, nurses and others who assisted six Red Cross personnel at the drawing.

As most of you know, the drawing for the Hancock County Blood Bank is done by the Red Cross. The blood supply for Hancock Medical Center comes from the American Red Cross.

At this drawing there were also some donations used for blood plasma.

John has been chairman for the local blood bank for many years, and he said he would like to extend a big thank you to each and every one who helped make the drive a success.

The next blood drawing will be April 12 at the Waveland American Legion Home.

I awoke Saturday to the chirping of the mockingbird family of the neighborhood. As a matter of fact, I can hear one chirping away as I write this column.

The warm weather, along with the songs of birds, is a reminder of the fast approach of Spring, a time when nature begins a new cycle.

Flowers are beginning to bloom, trees are budding, grasses are beginning to grow, and yes, the weeds too.

Some residents are now beginning to get the itch to start vegetable and flower gardens and all of this is good.

One of the biggest needs of our communities is more people concerned about litter problems.

It is disgraceful to drive some of our streets because of the amount of litter.

Officials can clean a street one day; a few days or a week later it looks as if the area had never been cleaned.

We, the citizens are responsible for the appearance of our communities. If there are enough of those who think changes should be made, the attitudes of others could be favorably influenced.

All residents should join together for a common goal of making our communities litter free.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

Accountability in government accomplished by reorganization

If you want to get a job done, just hold somebody accountable.

That is a lesson anyone in business knows. The buck has to stop somewhere, otherwise you get excuses rather than profits.

State government could learn a lot by that example. And that is exactly what my state government reorganization proposal is designed to do—put accountability in government.

No government—in good conscience—can ask for the public's support unless it is first willing to require true accountability in government.

This issue is before the Mississippi Legislature right now, and we need the strongest possible reorganization bill.

Why? Did you know that more than 700 people—appointed, not elected to staggered terms—run most of state government? They hire, fire and make policy. And yet, hardly any citizen knows who these individuals are.

Do you really want a system of state government where it is almost impossible to hold anyone accountable for performance of agencies that deliver services to you, the people?

What I have proposed is a plan that reduces the size of state government and saves money. But most importantly, it holds the governor and the Legislature much more accountable for the performance of state government.

The governor will appoint more major agency directors, and the Senate will have to approve or confirm those appointments. What that means is that the governor will be directly responsible for agency performance, and the Legislature will have a much greater say in who runs agencies.

I believe any governor would willingly accept that responsibility in order to make government work better. And many legislators I've talked to welcome the opportunity to pass judgement on appointed agency heads.

Polls indicate that the public is overwhelmingly in favor of reorganization as is the business community. That is no accident. Most people want positive change, and they recognize a good thing when they see it.

The House has passed a meaningful state government reorganization bill. It represents a good, strong step in the right direction, and I urge your support of this measure as it awaits action in the Mississippi Senate.

In the end, all any of us want is to provide all the government the citizens of Mississippi need, but no more than they need. Reorganization will help us do that.

Compretta named to NCSL Committee

Representative J. P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis has been named as a member of the Science, Technology and Resource Planning Committee of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL).

The committee is part of NCSL's Assembly on the Legislature (AOL), which serves as a forum for the exchange of ideas and information among state legislatures. The assembly meets three times each year to address critical issues facing the states—twice in state capitals and once in conjunction with the NCSL's annual meeting.

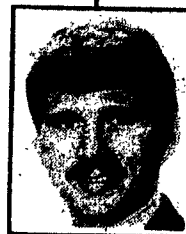

Among the issues high on the committee's agenda this year are solid waste, global warming, computer viruses, groundwater, underground storage tanks, biotechnology, and the strategic defense initiative.

Representative Compretta, a nine-year legislative veteran, represents House District 122 in Hancock County. He serves as chairman of the House Local and Private Legislation Committee and is current chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Performance Evaluation and Expenditure Review (PEER).

"Serving on the Science, Technology and Resource Planning Committee will provide me with a unique opportunity to discuss state issues with state legislators and legislative staff from throughout the country," Compretta said. "Through the assembly on the Legislature and NCSL, we will be able to share innovative ideas on how to approach the issues facing our nation."

NCSL represents the legislators and staffs of the nation's 50 states, its commonwealths and territories. NCSL has three

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Gene Taylor

Equity funding for public school districts and gambling proposals were just a few of the controversial issues debated by the Senate which tackled more than 160 bills last week.

The Senate did not vote on its bill regarding the proposed closure of the charity hospitals, but will have the opportunity to address the issue when the bill passed by the House reaches the Senate.

In an effort to improve education statewide, the Senate passed legislation to insure that at least a benchmark amount is spent on education for every public school student.

In a nutshell, this is an effort to see that all school districts show the same strong commitment to public education that the coastal counties have shown.

It is the next logical step in our effort to improve education. If we are to improve as a state, it is imperative that every Mississippian be given the opportunity to make the most of his or her abilities. This is another step toward providing that opportunity.

Commonly known as "equity funding," the bill guarantees that at least $418 is spent on each student. To achieve this, each school district must levy 25 mills of ad valorem tax or a lesser amount if that would yield the $418.

All six of the school districts in Senate District 46 (Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties) spend more than $418 per student, so there would be no increase in your local taxes.

However, in those parts of the state where there is not a strong commitment to public education (34 districts statewide), local taxes will have to be raised. Finally, if any district cannot generate the $418 with the 25 mills and other local funds such as 16th section or Chickasaw School funds, severance tax, TVA funds, or national forest funds, then that district would be eligible for assistance from the state.

The bill further provides as an incentive for consolidation of districts an additional $36 per student grant where there is only one school district per county.

In Hancock County, where the two districts are considering consolidation, this would amount to an income of $156,312 per year in state funding for our schools. As it passed the Senate, the bill only authorizes the existence of the program; it will require a $20 million appropriation from the state in order to become a reality.

All three gambling proposals presented to the Senate were defeated. One would have authorized Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and two other counties to hold elections on allowing basic objectives: to improve the quality and effectiveness of state legislatures; to foster interstate communication and cooperation; and to assure state legislatures a strong, cohesive voice in the federal system.

greyhound race tracks with pari-mutuel betting.

Another would have put in place the mechanism to regulate and operate a state lottery if and when the people of the state vote to take the prohibition against lotteries out of the state Constitution.

The third bill would have set up a division within the State Tax Commission to regulate any form of gambling authorized by law. That bill further set regulations for bingo games, which is the only form of gambling presently legalized.

I voted for all three measures. I feel that the citizens should be allowed to decide if they want a race track or a lottery. The third measure would have given the state additional regulatory authority to insure that bingo games are run by and for the support of legitimate charities.

Other bills which passed in the area of education include:

* S. B. No. 2390, a bill that I authored, to establish the William Winter Teacher Scholarship Program which will convert loans to scholarships for those students who teach a required period of time in the state.

* S. B. No. 2145 to require counties to levy a minimum millage to support junior college districts. (This bill will not affect your local taxes since the three coastal counties already collect more than the minimum mandated by this law.)

* S. B. No. 2660 to establish a gifted education program in every school district by the 1992-93 school year provided state funds are made available.

* S. B. No. 2155 to authorize school district agreements for payment for transfer students.

Bills which the Senate passed relating to children include:

* S. B. No. 2207, the Child Residential Home Notification Act, to require facilities which board children to register with the state, provide certain information regarding the children housed there, and submit to certain safety and health inspections.

* S. B. No. 2204 which establishes a Children's Trust Fund for the prevention of child abuse.

Two bills dealt with elections:

* Another bill that I authorized, S. B. No. 2393, which passed, allows absentee voting for anyone who will be away from the county of their voting residence on election day for whatever reason. This will make voting easier for those of you who commute or who choose to be on vacation on election day.

* S.C.R. No. 507, which passed, allows you, the voters to decide at the June 20 election on amending the Constitution to prohibit felons convicted in any court from being allowed to hold public office.

Several bills that I helped pass dealt with law enforcement and courts:

* S. B. No. 2353 to allow boards of supervisors to increase per diem of jurors up to $40 per day passed.

* S. B. No. 2232 to allow state courts to permit wiretapping in suspected drug trafficking cases passed.

* S. B. No. 2527 to allow sheriffs to use radar on county roads narrowly passed. The bill allows the sheriff to use radar upon approval by the board of supervisors who must advertise the intent in the newspaper for 60 days.

Another bill that I supported dealt with public utilities:

* S. B. No. 2565 was passed in an effort to protect the members of our rural Electric Power Associations during proposed buyouts. The bill requires a full disclosure statement of the party or parties interested in buying the co-op, a legitimate appraisal of the property, and a vote by 60 percent of the membership in order to sell.

I would be glad to hear your comments on any legislation during the year, and you may write to me at the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215 or call 359-3770 and I will return your call as soon as possible.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bisnette

On Thursday, I went to register for my next couple of classes at University of Southern Mississippi—Gulf Park and I was again impressed with the number of people going back to school.

I had a bill to pay so I got in a line for the business office window and discovered I had accidentally gotten into a line for reapplying students.

Reapplying students are those who have attended USM before but have not attended the previous quarter.

In the line with me were two other women, one a little older than I am and another I would suppose was about 40. We started talking about the registration procedure, which has been streamlined by computerization.

One of the ladies said she was pleased to hear that the process had been improved because registering had been quite difficult when she last went to college in 1980.

The other one told the clerk that she was not sure whether she had changed her records to her married name. She hadn't attended since 1979.

A man waiting for his registration packet overheard and told her he hoped getting her records wouldn't take long. He had been out of school since 1982 and the clerk was calling the main campus at Hattiesburg for him because the Gulf Coast computer could not pull up any data on him.

It never fails to impress me when somebody goes back to school. I'm especially impressed when someone does so by personal choice.

My husband Joe says it shouldn't impress me that much because it's something I've done myself; he knows I'm not usually impressed by things that I can do, but only those I can't.

The kind of things I see other people doing that usually excite me are things like excelling in sports, which I can't; playing a beautiful piece of music, which I don't know how to do; or creating a lovely work of art, which I've never tried.

Going back to school, though, is different. The fact that I've done it does not, in this case, make it any less remarkable. It makes me more able to appreciate it.

It takes a commitment that is hard to make when there are so many other things to do. Somehow, the students I've met who are taking courses because their employment requires continuing education or are taking them on some sort of incentive program seem, in general, somewhat less enthusiastic than those pursuing their studies by their own initiative.

It also takes self-discipline, just like those accomplishments in sports, music or art. Just as I find it hard to study when Joe is home and I'd rather spend my time with him, other students I've talked with find it hard to complete a book report when they have a major presentation to make at work or a load of dirty dishes begging to be washed.

Returning to school takes ambition. It's expensive and it's time-consuming. When you're writing a tuition check that equals or surpasses the amount of your rent, or sitting in class when you have a hundred things undone at home, or trying to navigate the repair work on US-90 in front of Gulf Park, you have to be thinking of the end result.

Another quality involved is nerve. Once a person stops going to school every year, on a regular schedule, a certain fear takes over and makes it difficult to return. Most of the people I talk with who say they want to go back say they are afraid they won't be able to readjust to studying, taking tests and all the other things involved. Some of those people realize that it's just a fear, programmed into us by society, and overcome it.

The colleges, particularly USM, seem to be trying especially hard to help the people who want to further their education but have long since passed the age of the traditional student. At Gulf Park, I am probably one of the youngest students in my master's-level classes. I'm 29. There are also many older students at the main campus and other branches.

With the advances in technology and other fields, there are many of us who could be left behind if we don't prepare for the future. Education is one of the best ways to do so. It may be difficult to get, but unless your income is so low you don't care about education, it's seldom impossible.

I'm not just plugging my own school, or the academic type degrees; I'm merely using them for examples. There are a number of fine schools within commuting distance of the Gulf Coast that offer full-time and extension programs ranging from those designed for specific trades to some doctoral programs.

The fear of returning to school is only a fear. Recognize that, then take advantage of the opportunities available. Whether you pursue a degree or just take that art class you've always wanted, you'll never regret it.

Homemaker's self-esteem

How we feel about ourselves has a major influence on every area of our lives. Feelings of guilt, depression, fear, worthlessness, loneliness and isolation are emotions that we might experience as a result of low self-esteem.

Self-esteem is our present evaluation of ourselves, our failures, successes, talents and weaknesses.

Some full-time homemakers have a particular problem maintaining a positive sense of self. This is easy to understand when we look at how the job of homemaker is viewed in society.

Let's look at the distinguishing job features of homemaker. The most obvious feature is no salary. Additionally, homemakers receive limited job security and benefits. Most people who work, even those who make a small amount of money, are covered by Social Security and by unemployment insurance. Our society tends to value paid work over unpaid work. Any activity performed without pay is considered a hobby or pastime.

In a culture that measures accomplishment primarily in dollars, homemakers are at a disadvantage. When society does not value your work it is hard to maintain a high level of self-esteem.

For many homemakers, social interaction is limited to spouse and children. This small, and sometimes unsympathetic support system may not give the homemaker a feeling of being appreciated or enough evidence of being valued. It's often easier to get a verbal "good job" out of the boss than it is from children and husband.

Homemakers do not participate in any system of rewards, advancement or professional improvement. They contribute service, not money, to their family, and service is often less valued than cash. Since society attributes relatively low status to the job of homemaker, it is very difficult for a homemaker to feel much power or influence over events or people. A feeling of powerlessness is very damaging to the self-esteem.

It's not all bad news, however, since homemaker does provide autonomy and variety on the job. Homemakers work long but fairly flexible hours. They can choose between a variety of both active and less active tasks. A homemaker's job satisfaction is under her own control.

As a result of her independence on the job, a homemaker does have the freedom to love according to her own values and beliefs. Therefore, a homemaker has an opportunity to enhance self-esteem by achievement of self-chosen goals and by behaving consistently with her values.

Homemaking is an important job but homemakers have to work especially hard to keep their level of self-esteem high.

Extension homemaker clubs offer a variety of "professional improvement" activities. In addition they provide opportunities to make new friends, improve your home and community and learn to be a better leader and to broaden outlook. For more information, contact Darlene Underwood, Hancock County Extension Home Economist at 467-5456.

Entries sought for Beef Cook-Off

Your original beef recipe could make you $15,000 richer. By winning your state's 'Beef Cook-Off' in the conventional category, or one of seven regional contests in the microwave or barbecue categories, you could join 63 other contestants for the National Beef Cook-Off Sept. 17-19 in Portland, Or. for a chance at $32,000 in prize money. First place state winner will receive $1,000 plus trip to Portland.

Winners of each of the three categories at the national level win $5,000, and a chance for an additional $10,000 as the 'Best of Beef'.

There are also second and third prizes of $3,000 and $2,000, respectively, in the conventional category, and $1,000 prizes for the 'Most Convenient' and 'Under 300 Calories/Serving' categories.

First prize winners also receive appliances from Tappan and premium charcoal from Kinsford, official sponsors of the 1989 National Beef Cook-Off.

To enter, send a Typed copy of your recipe(s) (specifying the appropriate category) to: State Beef Cook-Off, 121 N. Jefferson St., Jackson, MS 39201.

Better hurry, though. Entries must be postmarked no later than March 1, 1989 to be eligible.

Contestants in all three categories are judged by independent professionals on the basis of taste, ease of preparation and practicality, originality and appearance.

All recipes must contain a minimum of one pound of beef and not more than five, with one serving containing at least three ounces of beef.

Cooking time cannot exceed four hours (not including preparation time). The recipe must be original and specific, with no use of brand names, and must state the number of servings and approximate preparation time.

To be eligible, you must be 18 years or older, with non-professional food status. In addition, you may not have owned one of more head of beef or dairy cattle (or lived in a household where any person has owned cattle) in the 12 months preceding Oct. 1, 1989.

The National Beef Cook-Off is sponsored by the American National Cattle Women in cooperation with the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board.

BIRTHDAYS—Michael W. Prendergast, 9, and Eric M. Kinard, 4, joined their great-grandmother Claire May, 74, in celebrating their January birthdays. Friends and family joined them for a spaghetti dinner and birthday party.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By Lee Taylor

ANIMAL HOUSE

Happy are healthy animals, and happy are owners in Hancock County who can keep them that way.

Whether animals are the family pets or the family livelihood doesn't matter. Sick animals can be an emotional and financial drain on the people responsible for them.

We have many livestock producers and pet owners in Hancock County, so this county agent is constantly seeking information on animal health care. The local veterinarians are always my first source, and they should be yours too.

If you want to see veterinary medicine on a large scale, then I invite you to an open house from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., March 3 and 4, at the College of Veterinary Medicine at Mississippi State University. Admission is free.

The veterinary students put on an open house each year to make the profession, college, faculty and themselves available to you. They want you to talk with them, tour the hospital and see advancements being made in animal health care.

This is an opportunity for livestock producers, pet owners, 4-H and FFA members, high school students and the rest of Hancock County to see what's being done at our state's veterinary school. See you there.

PECAN TREES

February is an ideal time to plant pecan trees in Hancock County. Container-grown and row-grown trees, which are available at reliable nurseries in our area, can be planted from now until springtime as long as temperatures are low.

Be sure to buy strong, vigorous pecan trees. Follow proper planting procedures to make sure trees remain strong as they develop.

Select a good site for planting. Sandy loam soils with good internal drainage are critical to success. Soil pH should be about 6.5 for young pecans to thrive. Adjust pH and nutrient levels according to soil test recommendations.

Dig a hole wide and deep enough so roots won't bend. Set the tree at the same depth it grew in the nursery row or container. Refill the hole about one-half or two-thirds with good topsoil.

Pour water into the hole to settle soil and get rid of air pockets, finish filling the hole with soil, leaving a slight depression at the tree base. This depression makes watering easier during dry weather.

Diamondhead Art Association

The Diamondhead Art Association recently hosted 20 members of the Southern Poetry Association at the regular January meeting. Guests and members were invited to read some of their original poems. Members participating in reading their poems are Jerry Plante, Dorothy Booth, Charlotte Reshew and Coella Longanecker.

Semi-finalist entries in the most recent contest held by the Southern Poetry Association were read and the first four winners announced.

They are, first place, 'Legacy of the Land,' by Louise Rogers of Gulfport; second place, 'Of Time and Change,' by Dr. Ray Nail of Brandon, Miss.; third place, 'Of Presidents and Kings,' by Thomas Lynn of Lawrenceville, Ga.; fourth place, 'Autumn Spirit,' by Teresa Miles of Gulfport.

The agenda for the Apr. 3 meeting will be announced at the March meeting.

Hancock County Historical Society

To celebrate National Historical Month, the Hancock County Historical Society will present three special speakers and hold an evening meeting so more members and the public might be able to attend.

The speakers for this occasion will be Mayor Victor Franckiewicz giving the history of Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Joe Pilet giving the history of the Daughters of the American Revolution; and Mr. Bernard McClelland giving the history of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

This meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis Library. Refreshments will be served. Members and the public are invited to attend. Come join us this special occasion and learn that 'history is not dull in our company.'

Friendship Oak DAR

Mrs. James R. Thomas, regent, presided over the Feb. 11 meeting of the Friendship Oak Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution which was held at the Gulfport Best Western.

Hostesses for the luncheon meeting were Mrs. Sidney Ruskin and her granddaughter, Mrs. David Killeen. Patriotism was the meeting's theme, and a red, white and blue floral bouquet and similar colored streamers decorated the tables.

Mrs. Clyde Woodfield, wife of the state senator from the Mississippi coastal district, was guest speaker. Her subject, "The Rest of the Story," was an interesting talk, interspersed with appropriate vocal music, on the ideals and lives of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, who met to form "a partnership between the living, dead, and yet unborn."

These signers of the Declaration were all leaders, wealthy men, landowners and persons of position and security who had everything to lose and nothing to gain but freedom. If they lost, they faced hanging for treason. In the last sentence of the document they mutually pledged to each other "our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

In many cases cited by Mrs. Woodfield the signers did lose their lives, their homes and families and their fortunes, during or soon after the Revolutionary War as a direct result of their involvement with the break from English tyranny.

Mrs. Woodfield said, "We must not forget that today we are indeed heirs of that last revolution. Every American needs to know that we owe a tremendous debt to those who initiated freedom in this land. They paid the price for our freedom to be born."

When Benjamin Franklin, elder statesman of the convention to draw up the Declaration of Independence, was asked what kind of government the group had given the country, his reply was "A republic, Sir, if you can keep it."

Mrs. Woodfield said in closing that "Under our system of election processes, we may elect to change party control every four years. When the election is over, we unite behind our elected officials. It is a system admired and feared throughout the world. Treasure your right to vote and use it at every opportunity. Each of us as a responsible citizen is challenged to hold fast to the ideals set forth in the Declaration of Independence and in the Constitution. Guard them well in order that the flag may forever fly over a land that is free—we have a republic if we can keep it."

Mrs. R. L. Morton introduced Mrs. Steve (Cherie) Ladner, history teacher at Long Beach High School, who was chosen by Friendship Oak DAR as "Outstanding Teacher of American History." Ladner has also been chosen state winner of this honor, and will be among contenders for the national title of "Outstanding Teacher of American History."

Philip Marshall of Long Beach High School received the DAR Good Citizen Award. The National Defense message was read by Mrs. George Cassis. Secretary Mrs. Hazel Erhard read the minutes of the January meeting and Mrs. William Gemmell gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Philip Davenport gave the registrar's report.

It was announced that Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet has an article in the February issue of DAR magazine. In addition, Mrs. Pilet will speak on the history of DAR before the Hancock Historical Society on Feb. 22 at 8 p.m. in the Bay St. Louis Library.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, March 8, when the meeting topic will be 'Music of the Revolution.'

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club met Feb. 15 at the Community Center. The president, Mrs. Betty Claggett, announced that Arbor Day had been observed in Diamondhead with the planting of trees at the Fire Station.

Mrs. Luther Grice had one planted in memory of her late husband, Luke. Twelve guests and one new member were introduced.

Flower Show chairman, Mrs. Ethel Evans, gave a full report to the members on how the show was being given this year, with all design entries being staged in the home of Mrs. Nancy Schuback, and the Horticulture and Special Exhibits staged in the card room of the Community Center.

Special exhibits will include one done by the youth group, which Mrs. Brierly Acker is handling; a Birds Exhibit with Mrs. Jean Eakin in charge, an orchid display done by Mr. Larry Strasburger, a books display, and the atrium is included for all visitors to the show and the Pilgrimage to see the 'before' pictures and the 'after' results.

After the show has been judged on Tuesday, March 28, the winning floral designs and their accompanying ribbons will be taken to the homes being opened for the Pilgrimage Wednesday, March 29.

Mrs. Evans announced the names of the committee in charge of the show which is titled 'A Visit to Paradise,' schedule chairman, Mrs. Alice Brameyer, read the titles of the design classes and spoke on the musts and must-nots of this division.

She will give a workshop on design at the home of Mrs. Dixie Ogden on March 22.

A report on Arbor Day at Beauvoir, attended by three members of the Diamondhead Club, was given by Arbor Day chairman, Mrs. Mary Cassis, who gave a brief resume of the program.

Mrs. Ann Neff, program chairman, said the date of the trip to New Orleans to the zoo had been changed to April 7.

Mrs. Dorothy Booth, who had been in charge of the Garden Club's Mardi Gras float had her committee stand and be recognized.

Mrs. Claggett asked members to volunteer to serve as hostesses at the Stennis Space Center and the Welcome Center on March 27, the day the Pilgrimage will feature those places.

Mrs. Carol Bustetter, horticulture chairman, gave many interesting and helpful tips on gardening chores to be done at this time. She also urged members to go view the beautiful garden of Mrs. Nina Cotton, now blooming with tulips and pansies.

A Cooking School, again given by Mrs. Terry Thompson, will be held Feb. 25. Morning and afternoon sessions will be conducted, and the $16 ticket includes lunch and a tasting tour given in four Diamondhead homes.

The program was presented by Mrs. Floyd Patterson, owner of the Green Thumb Nursery in Gulfport, who had brought many beautiful potted plants which she used as examples as she spoke of the best methods of planting and maintaining container grown plants.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Pass Christian Carnival Assoc. stages 59th annual ball

The 59th annual St. Paul's Carnival Association Mardi Gras Ball was held Feb. 4 at St. Paul's Auditorium. The theme of the 1989 Ball was 'Games People Play.'

The 1988 king and queen, Rimmer Covington and Laura McDonald Pickich greeted the guests after which the ball captain presented the members of the 1989 court who were Mrs. Terri Hadaway, escorted by Jamie Jenkins; Mrs. Rhonda Halterlein, escorted by Vinnie Halterlein; Mrs. Janet Jenkins, escorted by Brent Jenkins; Mrs. Julie Jenkins, escorted by Lonnie Jenkins; and Mrs. Bridget Ulich, escorted by Rod Jenkins. Also, Mrs. Deanna Castanedo, escorted by Joe Emmel; Mrs. Patricia Cousins, escorted by Bernie Cousins; Mrs. Mary Jo Barr, escorted by Billy Mahoney; Mrs. Dawn Necaise, escorted by Rusty Necaise; and Ms. Debra Zeitfuss, escorted by Stanley Bibler.

Mr. Claiborne "Buck" Fayard, who served as master of ceremonies, introduced Mr. Dave Zeitfuss, 1989 grand duke and Mrs. Linda Emmel, grand duchess.

Entering to the strains of 'If Ever I Cease to Love' was His Majesty King Christian LIX Mark Jenkins, resplendent in a costume designed by Mrs. Lide Barrett of Biloxi, of white imported brocade which featured a tunic top heavily encrusted with silver braid and re-embroidered with semi-precious stones. He wore the traditional mantle of King Christian of deep royal purple velvet. The mantle was decorated with the carnival association's logo of silver seashores.

His pages were the Masters David Byrne, Joey Niolet, Victor Pickich and Jason Fournier.

The queen, Mrs. Pat Scarborough, was attended by Misses Dayna Castaneda, Jennifer Gibson, Destin Jenkins and Kim Scarborough. She was escorted by her husband Grady "Buddy" Scarborough.

Her gown of imported white silk was designed in a sheath fashion with a fitted bodice. The jewel neckline and cap sleeves were edged with lace and trimmed with tear-drop pearls. Embellishing the front of the gown were appliques of flower petals re-embroidered with mother-of-pearl sequins and beading. Her mantle matched that of the king's.

The ball decorations reflected the theme, 'Games People Play,' and were designed by Kevin Gallagher. Mrs. Alice Wittmann, president of the carnival association, presented gifts to the royalty and members of their family.

Carnival flags with the Roman numerals LIX were presented to the new king and queen along with silver champagne buckets. The flags, a traditional gift to the king and queen for the past 27 years, were the idea of Mrs. Jessie McKay and the late Parnell McKay. Mrs. Julia Cerra, Queen Christina in 1941, is the official flag maker for the association.

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

The bottom line of religion

It almost defies credibility that, after years of sermons and religious practices, most of us tend to be religious duds compared to what sermons and liturgies are trying to induce us to be.

One would think that thousands of repetitions of teachings, admonitions and inspiring words, not to mention the good example of many, would have left much more of a positive mark on us.

The reasons for this backward condition of ours are many and, for the most part, very obvious, as they are rooted in human nature. However, less obvious but very damaging is the reason that we make our religion too abstract and divorced from reality.

Religious or spiritual reality in our life should be as any other reality in life: very plain, simple, straightforward. So we need to ask ourselves often what the bottom line of religion is.

In the briefest of terms, the bottom line of religion in our daily lives is any point or source of undesirable friction, rancor, arrogance, selfishness, cruelty, greed, jealousy or envy at which we prevail or fail through God's grace or our evilness.

It all comes down to the most concrete of situations in which we find ourselves every day. Perhaps the principal of all situations is the daily power struggle of practically every human being.

Am I determined to ride roughshod over my spouse or at least to control her/him in most things, such as decision-making, finances, educating and disciplining the children, and ground rules for the house, the car, companions and social activities?

If I am, then all the sermons, prayers and liturgies have done little to bring about true religion in me. If I am, I have come to the bottom line of religion and been found wanting.

Yes, control is the bottom line of religion. Control is the acid test of whether Jesus lives in us through his command to serve one another, not to exercise power over each other.

Turning the communal family, the bottom line of religion is probably most noticeable and probably least tolerated in the church setting, where the bishop, the pastor, parish council members, choir members, ushers, ministers of the word and other ministers often engage in a power struggle supposedly to serve God best.

Plainly, if it is a power struggle, it is not at all religion, whether that struggle takes place within the nuclear family or within the communal praying family in church. In the kingdom of Jesus, there must be only the struggle to serve the needs of all.

The bottom line of religion is to serve in school, in the hospital or on any other job, not to maneuver to control others.

Since service, generosity and sharing are the bottom line of religion, we are fooling ourselves if we call them religious who frequent churches and wrap themselves in prayers and pious talk—unless they use everyday events to enliven those practices.

Prayer and worship are necessary for the most elemental emotional and spiritual well-being of each human being; yet they are but an exercise in deceit and futility unless they are translated into wholesome awareness of ourselves and others.

The bottom line of religion is not the beauty of my words in prayer to God, but the sensitivity and caring of my speech toward my fellow humans. It does not lie in the frequency of my turning inward toward the transcendence of God, but rather in the sincerity of my recognizing the majesty of God in my sisters and brothers.

Religion, by definition, is what ties us to God. Jesus tied us by becoming the Son of Man. Our return is to be children of God.

Communication enhances marital relationships

Open, positive communication plays an important role in drawing most couples into marriage. Unfortunately, the breakdown in that communication is a common factor in many of today's divorces.

Even though married couples should be best friends, some people will not communicate with their spouse freely about fears, anxieties, hopes and dreams. Poor communication skills also can be detrimental when unavoidable disagreements arise.

"An honest expression of differences, handled correctly, can strengthen the relationship and a couple's mutual respect for each other," said Norine Barnes, family and child development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Barnes said respect and communication play a vital role in all areas of the marriage relationship including decision making, resolving conflicts and the physical relationship.

"Be willing to share feelings and thoughts, both the positive and the negative, but relate negative thoughts in a non-threatening, non-condemning way," she said.

"Avoid expecting too much of your mate," Barnes said. "Unrealistic expectations can boil people in and make them feel imprisoned."

The specialist encourages couples to make conscious attempts to communicate positive feelings, thoughts and attitudes to each other.

"Genuine, positive communication takes much of the threat and bitterness out of efforts to communicate in conflict situations," Barnes said.

Wynton Marsalis simulcast on PRM, ETV

Wynton Marsalis, the first artist ever awarded Grammys in both the classical music and jazz categories in the same year, approaches the art of jazz as the extension of the tradition of the great musicians who preceded him: Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Thelonius Monk, Charlie Parker, John Coltrane and others.

Marsalis talks about these jazz greats and their contributions to music in 'Wynton Marsalis: Blues and Swing,' airing in a stereo simulcast on Mississippi ETV and PRM Friday, Feb. 24 at 9 p.m.

The son of respected New Orleans pianist Ellis Marsalis and brother of saxophonist Branford, Wynton is highly respected throughout the music world as a trumpet virtuoso. Having played with Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers, Wynton formed his own band in 1982.

To take advantage of the stereo simulcast, viewers should tune their televisions to ETV and turn the volume down, then tune their radios to PRM and turn the volume up.

PRM, a division of Mississippi ETV, is broadcast statewide including on FM frequency 90.3, Biloxi.
